A Tribute To The Memory Of

Flower

*I am the one,
The tiny one,
He lifted high
To show the sky.*

*He smiled at the sun;
The wind held its breath;
For he is the One,
Lord of life and death.*

*From joy I cry.
He lifted me
For all to see;
I know not why.*

Immensity

*Poor insignificant thing,
alas,
You're only a blade
In an ocean of grass.*

Omniscience

*Darkish sky;
Little slit
of brightness,
For God to peek through.
But God doesn't need
To peek through,
Because God
Can see through—Everything.*

Quietness

*Listen to the quietness,
The beautiful song
That silence sings
In hesitant expectancy,
Soft peacefulness;
Waiting tremblingly,
And fearing
Lest something

Fr. Edward Stapleton

Almost daily that summer, a few years ago, he would sit in front of Nicolle Hall for a little while and joyfully watch the chipmunks race about, chasing each other in play, taking time to see and delight in these little animals. The rest of us just walked by, too busy to see what his gentle eyes beheld.

I passed him one day as he sat there. There were tears in his eyes and he was visibly shaken. He pointed to a dead little chipmunk at his feet and told me, with disbelief, that another chipmunk had rushed out and killed it before his eyes.

Ned had no use for any kind of violence. He could not even bring himself to read some of the psalms because they seemed so full of war, violence and vengeance. His revulsion for all that was brutal, hurting and destructive went against all the gentleness that formed the basis of his soul, his humanity. Some called him a dreamer. I always saw him as a spiritual realist.

I was seventeen when I met him some 40 years ago. Immediately, I saw the special quality of the man reflected in his warm, accepting blue eyes and genuine smile. Immediately, I knew I had met a friend—a special person.

He was different from most. He so centered on other people that "doing" things in life seemed secondary. There was no personal ambition in the man, no self-seeking, no need to succeed as the world defines success. He was not a doer; he was a lover. He loved God, his family, his brothers in religion, his students, little people wherever he met them. He loved nature, literature. He saw all of these with his unique vision of life as he marched to the tune of a different drum.

I often felt that he was one of the few "normal" persons I had ever met. The rest of us were neurotic, obsessive, driven.

He never built a building, never raised a lot of money, never administered an institution. Yet, in terms of intelligence he was brighter than most. Yet, being efficient, on time, orderly, were not his priorities. And that made him different. There were times that he suffered because others could not tolerate his difference. Children and old people always understood and loved him because they had not made efficiency a god. Only they could really understand that he was late for everything because he always took time for everyone.

A special man he was, this man who saw the world with different eyes. I always felt that he saw the world as Christ would see it. In essence, I believe so much that he was like Christ.

I shall always remember him riding around on his bike, stopping, always, to talk to those he met, responding to students who seemed to sense his special compassion and understanding.

Could it be that rarely, God sends us someone so totally human and yet, so totally like Himself in order to keep us from becoming dehumanized? He sends us a model of what loving can be.

My dear friend, I shall miss you. I grieve for all of us who shall see your face no more in this world. I shall miss your puns, your play with words, your bird-like whistles, your teasing, your encouragement, your acceptance, your loving, your gentleness. I grieve that students shall no longer have your special presence and compassion.

Yet, you will always be here. You have left your "footprints on the sands of time." You have gently touched our hard hearts. You have loved us as God does.

Good-bye, Ned. I really loved you. You always are for me what I might become—hopefully!

December 12, 1983

Dear Graduates of 1984:

By this time you are wondering what happened to those four years that went by so quickly. Someone has said that it is what you can't put your finger on in education that is so important.

I hope that has been true with you. And that you will find out as you gradually get perspective on your college experience that you may have acquired something of an aesthetic and intellectual appetite; that your value system may have changed from high school; that you have become less egocentric and more socially sensitive; and that you approach life with more humility.

We seek human excellence here at Saint Michael's. If we have given you some concept of man as a human being with all that this implies we can rest assured that we have started you off in life pointed in the right direction.

Please keep us informed of your whereabouts. Each of you, even if we occasionally forget your name, is part of the Saint Michael's family. That identification along will make you welcome whenever you meet faculty, administrators, or fellow alumni(ae). Bon voyage!

Sincerely,

Edward L. Henry

Dear Class of 1984

This year, 1984, is the 80th Anniversary of the founding of Saint Michael's College. As Superior General of the Society of Saint Edmund and Chairman of the Board of the Trustees of Saint Michael's College, this anniversary has special meaning for me and as alumnus with you, a special meaning for all of us.

The first meaning that comes to mind is gratitude. Gratitude to all the women and men who have been a part of Saint Michael's and a part of our lives here. We are grateful for their dedication and commitment to us. We are grateful to Almighty God who has blessed us in our life at Saint Michael's. During the past four years we have each become grateful to one another. In your name, the Class of '84, and in my own name, I thank those who have served us as Trustees. Thanks to the administration, faculty and all the staff. I would also like to thank, for all of us, your parents, our fellow alumni, and all of our benefactors whose generosity has made it possible for us to have these past four years.

At this very happy time in our lives, let us rededicate ourselves to all that the past four years have meant to us. First, let us renew our dedication to God by using the gifts that the past four years have brought for His honor and glory and for the good of all those with whom we will share our lives in the future. Let us dedicate ourselves to the men and women who will continue to work for Saint Michael's College in their special capacities: the members of the Society of Saint Edmund; the Board of Trustees; the Administration and faculty and all the staff. All of them will need for the future, to know that we support them in the good work that will benefit those who will come after us.

Finally, let us dedicate ourselves to one another with the assurance of prayer for mutual success and God's best blessing. This is the assurance that I bring to you from all who have, are and will be a part of Saint Michael's College.

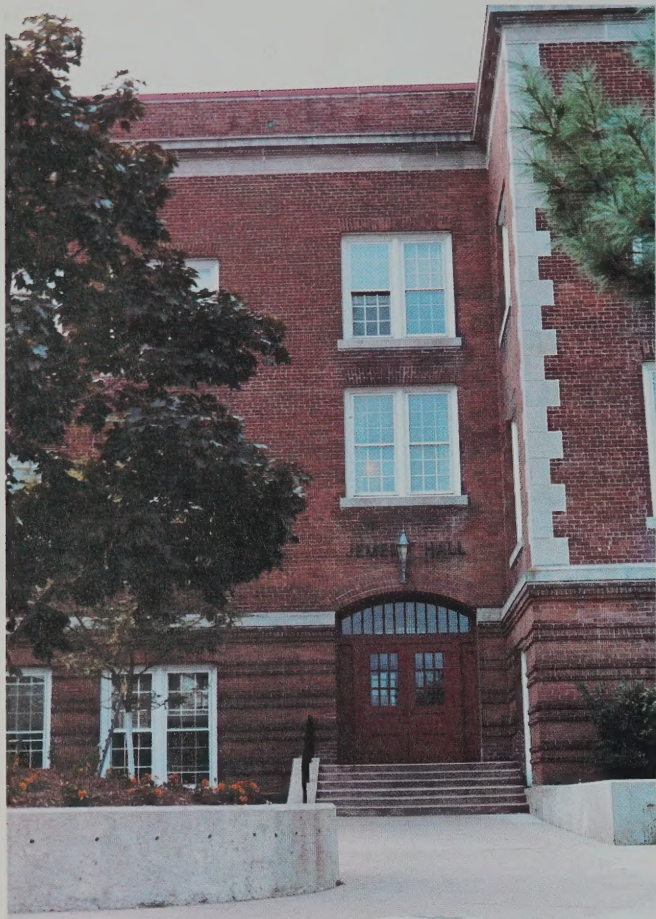

Sincerely yours in Christ,

The History Of The ISP Program

The St. Michael's College International Student Program was started in the summer of 1954 during the golden jubilee under the direction of Ernest A. Boulay. There are many special people who have been with the program since these early days. They include Alice Thayer and Eugene O'Neill, both associate professors of English as a second language. Gladys Keelty and Olga Stark are both professors emeritus. Norm Lacharite is the director of the ISP program and Rick Gamache is the Assistant Dean and Advisor to the ISP students.

Back in '54, the first students to arrive were French Canadians. That fall Jesuits from Columbia, South America came to study English. In the late 50's many Hungarians who immigrated to the United States during the Hungarian Revolution became oriented to our culture and language at SMC. Many Cuban refugees also came during the Cuban Revolution to learn English in a peaceful environment.

In 1968, the ISP Program moved to the Dupont Language Center on the North Campus. Since then, St. Michael's College has welcomed many students from all corners of the globe; North, Central and South America, Europe, Scandinavia, Asia, the Middle East, Africa, and the Orient. Many countries now have SMC alumni offices.

Students are usually placed in the "Intensive Program" for approximately 4 months. Then they may continue in the undergraduate "Associate" Program which involves special orientation and support. Half of the foreign students opt to continue their education in the U.S. The other half return to their countries to attend schools to gain degrees or go into professions. Many who choose to stay in the states continue on in the regular undergraduate program at St. Mike's to obtain bachelor degrees. Some choose to continue on in the graduate programs at SMC, especially the Masters of Teaching English as a Second Language.

Thank you ISP for 30 years of bringing friends from all over the world to share their culture and help make SMC a special place to learn.

Italy

Mario Venesia, a native of Carrara, Italy, arrived in Vermont around Thanksgiving in 1979. He heard of St. Mike's through a sculptor from Williston, VT who had gone to Italy to buy marble from Mario's father. After studying English in the ISP program, Mario was coaxed into taking regular undergraduate courses by his friend John Engles, Jr. Mario is a Business Major. He is active in the S.A., the tennis team and soccer. Mario has found Vermonters much more introverted than the people of Italy. He finds it difficult to meet people outside the college environment. It bothered him that the American students did not make an effort to get to know the foreign students because of language barriers. This problem has decreased considerably since he has been here. The things Mario likes best about SMC is the exposure to many different cultures, people, and different subjects.

Tokyo, Japan is Takanobu Yazaki's hometown. After looking into colleges in Colorado, California Florida and Vermont, Takanobu chose St. Michael's. He learned about Vermont from his father who had been here on business. Takanobu is a business major and played on the rugby and tennis teams. Coming from a large city, Takanobu has found Vermont very quiet and more conservative than his native land. He enjoys the small size of St. Mike's and finds it easy to make friends.

Saint Ambroise Azagoh Kouadio is a native of Abidjan, the Ivory Coast. He is a business major, and has concentrated much of his study on mastering English as a second language. Saint learned about St. Michael's when his sister was a student here. He had studied the U.S. in school, and upon learning about Vermont, he thought it sounded like a nice place. He originally came just to learn English but decided to continue as an undergraduate because the people were so receptive. Apart from his studies, Saint was a standout on the mens varsity soccer team. He has helped Rick Gamache, ISP director and was involved in the S.A. Upon his arrival, the major cultural adjustment Saint faced was the different foods. He thought hamburgers and fries get boring after a while. He feels that SMC is a nice place to be because the students and teachers are so warm.

Sholeh Gilani came to the U.S. from Tehran, Iran to attend High School at Rice Memorial in South Burlington. She decided on Vermont to be close to her brother who was a student at Norwich University. After graduating Sholeh decided to continue her education at St. Michael's where she is a political science major. One of the things that Sholeh likes best about St. Mike's is the concern of her professors. She finds them very caring and easy to approach. Sholeh sees this as an advantage of a small school.

The Sabbatical Scoop

Each year, there are a few professors who spend one or both semesters away from Saint Michael's on sabbatical. Many students are unaware of just what the sabbatical is and where it is their teachers go. So we thought we'd give a little insight into the subject as well as recognition to those teachers who, though away from us at the moment, are still so much a part of our school.

Dr. Murphy, chairman of the English Department, was on sabbatical second semester this year. Among other things, he spent some time writing. One of his pieces is an essay which elegantly describes just what it is the sabbatical means:

I found these thoughts while fishing during my first sabbatical in 1976. At the end of this past semester's sabbatical, I still think they are true.

The sabbatical is a time to go fishing. This special kind of fishing requires some leisure, some freedom from restraint, from routine, from habit; it is individual-one trusts to luck at times; it offers new experiences in new and old waters; it makes possible the stimulus of other minds, diverse in opinion and diverse in fishing equipment.

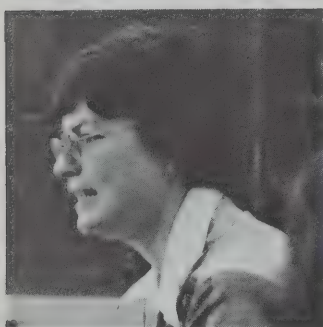

Above all, the sabbatical offers time, the kind of time Henry David Thoreau wrote about when he said: "Time is but the stream to go fishing in. I drink at it; but while I drink I see the sandy bottom and detect how shallow it is. Its thin current slides away but eternity remains. I would drink deeper; I would fish in the sky whose bottom is pebbly with stars."

After a semester's sabbatical I hope to take my students on such an adventure, such a fishing trip.

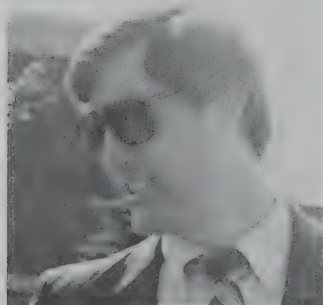

French professor Dr. Anne McConnell spent her first semester sabbatical attending a variety of conferences and workshops. Most of these centered around a long time consuming interest of hers, the study of Franco-American culture. Long ago this interest brought her in contact with ACTION, an organization for Franco-Americans in the Northeast. She is on ACTION's board of directors, and stays in close contact with them. Professor McConnell also attended a National Conference of the Association of Franco-Americans near Lake Huron, as well as a workshop in Montpelier given by a Quebec author. She also did research on population at the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C. as part of her study of Franco-American culture. Closer to home, Professor McConnell gave a series of lectures in Northern Vermont on the American version of French and its value as a language. In Vermont, especially, French culture is very important to many people, as a good portion of the state's population is of French origin.

Professor Kathy Rupright of the Spanish Department has been spending her second semester sabbatical finishing up her masters degree in French. She will receive it from Middlebury College this summer. She is taking her last two courses, which deal with sixteenth and eighteenth century literature, at the University of Vermont. As part of her interest in French, Professor Rupright recently audited a class of Dr. McConnell's and also spent last summer in Quebec City. Another one of her interests, Puerto Rican Theater, has resulted in a research project which she hopes to eventually publish.

Dr. Kroger, chairman of the Religious Studies department, returned to his alma mater of McMaster University in Ontario, Canada. He stayed there four months to study political philosophy and social science. Theologians today are drawing more and more on the social schools and Dr. Kroger, through his studies at McMaster, was hoping to gain some background for the courses he teaches here at Saint Michael's. Dr. Kroger also sat in on two graduate seminars while at McMaster and worked on a paper which he presented at the school; he is considering rewriting this for publication, though he is presently busy writing another.

And More, Read On . . .

In the Sociology department, chairman Dr. William Garrett spent the second semester of the school year doing research on the Natural Rights Theory. As part of his work, Dr. Garrett traced the theory in connection with the English Civil War. For this he spent some time in London going over the Leveler Tracts. Dr. Garrett has also been finishing up an intro. to sociology text which he is writing with Professors Bolduc and Maher. He has also been working on grants for the society for the scientific study of religion.

Sometimes professors choose to spend their sabbaticals at another college or university. Chemistry professor Dr. Gil Grady moved to the University of Texas at Austin where he stayed for two semesters. He was part of a research grant that attempted to use computers to calculate the properties and reactivation of chemical systems. The group would periodically write the manuscript on their results and then submit them for publication. The director of Dr. Grady's Research Group is known internationally for his work in organic and computer chemistry. Dr. Grady didn't spend all of his time in the lab. He enjoyed the university football games and also travelled extensively in Mexico, and the South. Before his returning to Vermont, Dr. Grady plans to spend a month out west.

Political Science Professor Dr. George Olgyay spent his second semester sabbatical on two different projects. One involved writing an essay on the nineteenth century poet Murdach's philosophy of History. This essay is to be published in the 'Festschrift', a book put together in honor of someone.

Dr. Olgyay's second project was a research paper on the idealogical basis of Soviet Foreign Policy stemming from Lenin to today. This study will have a direct impact on the course Dr. Olgyay teaches on Soviet Foreign Policy. The course will be reorganized according to what he has found in his study.

For Dr. Olgyay the end of the semester did not mean the end of the sabbatical. He has an idea in mind for another project, writing a text on Eastern European Politics.

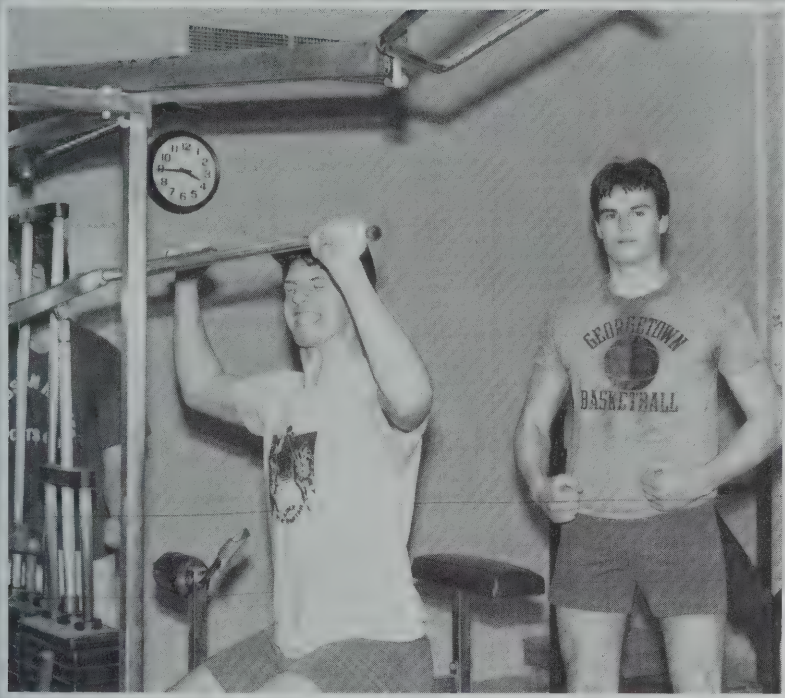

Dr. Amrhein of the Department of Business and Economics, spent his second semester sabbatical studying the history of banking in Vermont. It was this subject that he did his dissertation on several years ago. Dr. Amrhein was working on the break up of the Business/Economics/Accounting Departments into three separate ones. He will Chair the Economics Department and presently is redesigning some courses for the Fall.

Their primary interest is in learning about the business world, which could include just about any field one might wish to enter. Programs included the MBA night, Dress for Success, and Faculty Hobby night which helped to broaden the members perspectives, although all activities were open to anyone who took an interest. The club also sponsored two speakers, Jim Cox 'Federal Involvement in World Trade', and Dan Beards 'Marketing Yourself'.

Philosophy Club

They laughed when we said, "Philosophy Club". My dog laughed. And I don't even have a dog. They laughed when we said we liked to talk about things that mattered - about knowledge, about the human condition. They said it must get very boring. They were right - sometimes it did get very boring. But the trips to Zach's for Pizza afterwards were never boring. They laughed because we weren't organized. We couldn't help it. We're all anarchists at heart. After all, this isn't the Law Club. But we'll try to be better organized next year. If you want to join, go ahead. Just don't laugh at us.

College Bowl

The 1983-84 College Bowl Championships brought both knowledge and excitement to the St. Michael's Campus. In a double elimination tournament fifteen teams competed to go to the Regional Championships in Boston. Fall Tournament victors "Gang Green" were favorites in the spring tournament. Strong competition came from the "Rebels" and "Parents without Partners". "Gang Green" captain Drew Terrell, with Matt Soares, Justin 'Butch' McInerny, and Junior Rookie sensation Mike 'Mac' McDermott, faced "Parents Without Partners" in the loser's bracket of the competition of the tournament. After a finely played match, "Gang Green" came out victorious. To screaming crowds, "Gang Green" now was pitted against the feared "Rebels" who had defeated G. G. in a previous match. "Gang Green" was able to conquer nerves and the quality play of the "Rebels" in two matches taking the St. Michael's College Championships. Little did the boys know what lay ahead in Boston.

Campus Ministry helped Isabelle Matsikidze from Zimbabwe collect books for her village in Africa.

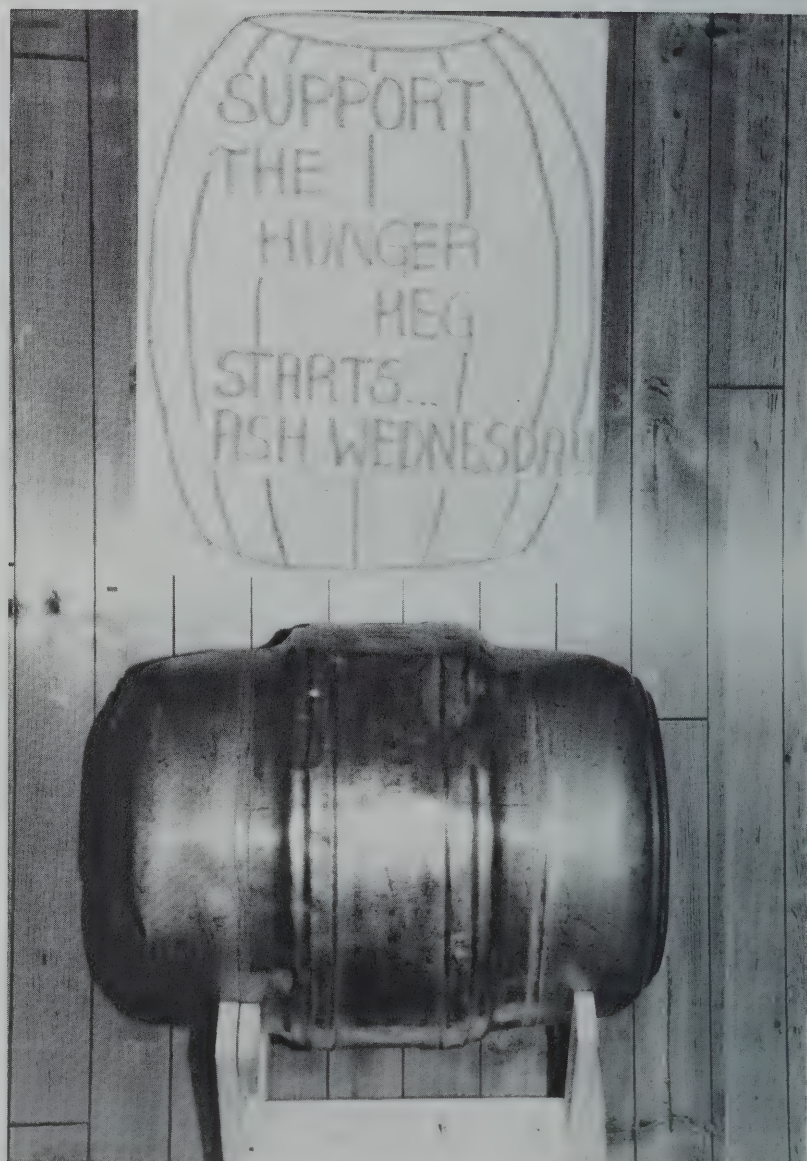

The Campus Ministry council is an advisory board to the Campus Ministry Director and Staff. Made up of students, non-student adults from the community, as well as the Campus Ministry staff, the council is the body most often responsible for generating the ideas which become Campus Ministry programs.

Implementing programs is a case of committee work. The Education Committee, chaired by Sue Daily, is responsible for Christian teaching. Among the events it sponsored was a Lenten Mission, a Christian Marriage talk, and a discussion of the U.S. Bishops "Peace Pastoral".

The Social Committee, chaired by Pat Forman, hosted a Bocce tournament, a Hunger Awareness Fast, and two coffee houses with an eye to developing Christian community and promoting social awareness.

Leon Vanasse chaired the Worship Committee. His job is to promote and enhance liturgy. This group helped to provide a Prayer workshop, Stations of the Cross, Liturgical dance, as well as seasonal decorations for the chapel.

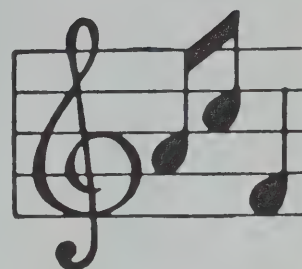

Council officers this year were Andy Courchaine: President, Anne-Marie Myers: Vice President, and Leon Vanasse: Secretary.

The Folk and Liturgical choirs of St. Michael's College Chapel, under the direction of John Penoyar, exist to encourage congregational singing as well as to provide a musical ambiance suitable for the worship situation. Drawing chiefly from a repertoire of contemporary liturgical folk music, the groups make a significant contribution to the life of Sunday Liturgies. Most recently the choirs have sought to incorporate music from the older Catholic traditions as well as from the Quaker and Mennonite traditions. Time, talent, and commitment are the watch words for any successful choir. The Folk and Liturgical Choirs are no exception.

After a long year of practicing 4-6 hours every week, the Drill team began it's winter season in Malone, N.Y. for the Malone Winter Carnival. The Saints took first place in the precision drill competition, defeating the tough team from Norwich Univ. The SMC team also took first place overall defeating over 50 bands and marching units. The following weekend the Marching Saints again dominated their division at the Saranac Winter Carnival in Saranac, N.Y. by taking first place for best marching unit. To close out the season, the Saints took first place in Brasher Falls, N.Y. at that city's Winter Festival Parade. Activities at WWPV took on a new seriousness in 1984. Under the leadership of 'PV's executive board, Jay O'Brien, Bill Trezenka, Chris Keach, and Chris McClure the station gained popularity. WWPV got on the air at the beginning of the school year in record time, with a full schedule after running a partial schedule though the summer. In 1984, 'PV instituted a Jazz block under the direciton of Dr. John Hughes (Po-

WWPV's main objective this year was to increase sound quality. This included screening 'on air' personnel and fixing up tired equipment. They hired a new engineer to help make the equipment sound better.

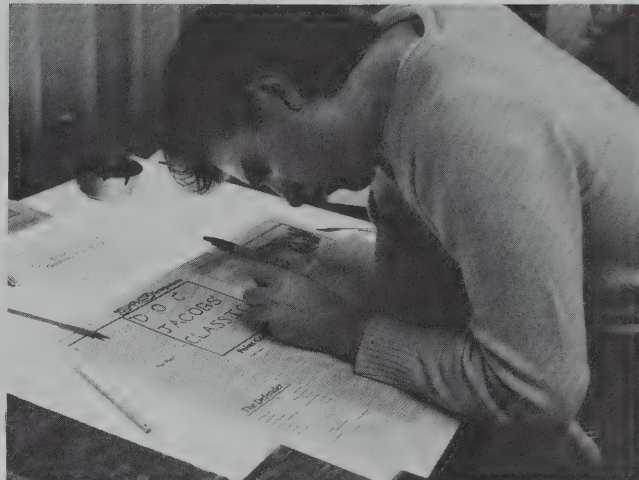

SMC can be proud of WWPV. It is headed in the right direction.

The 1984 Yearbook, alias 'Hilltop', enjoyed a hectic and bizarre year. As you may have noticed this book is very different in content and style. It is smaller but many things were included in this book for the first time. We used special graphics each unique to their respective sections. The organization of the book was also changed. We divided it into sections with separate editors. Diane worked on the Intro, Organizations and 'Traditions and Happenings' sections. Roger did the Patrons and Sponsors section. Linda did Residence Halls, Sue did Academics and Administration. Mike did Athletics, and Jeannie did the graduates. Jane worked on the divider pages. We wanted to make this book accurate as possible in representing 1984, a special year.

The Yearbook staff, along with the class of 1984, has chosen St. Michael's College artist in residence, Cyril Sloane, for the Hilltop dedication.

He was educated at Carleton Academy in Summit, NJ and graduated with a B.A. from Princeton in 1919 in Classics and Modern Languages. He studied at the Art Students League in New York and Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris.

He worked as a commercial artist for an ad firm on Park avenue. In New York city, he taught at the Brooklyn Museum of Art and the Jean Morgan School of Art. His work has been exhibited in various galleries in New York and Long Island. Mr. Sloane has also published an outline of art study.

In 1962, he came to St. Michael's College as a lecturer in humanities. The Art Department was then formed. He was the college's first artist in residence during the days of Miketown. The Edmundites; An SMC Tradition For 80 Years

C. Burtis

Fr. John LeBrake, Superior of the SMC Edmundite Community

C. Burtis

The Society of St. Edmund was founded after Edmund Rich, archbishop of Canterbury, England. He would journey to Rome, Italy through France and died there in 1240. His body is enshrined in the village of Pontigny, France. The religious community at the abbey of Pontigny named itself after St. Edmund after he was canonized. During the 19th century the government of France suppressed religious communities. In 1891 the society sent members to open a mission for French speaking Catholics of Vermont. The Bishop of Burlington asked the society to establish a college and in 1904 St. Michael's opened.

The Edmundites retain many French customs in their celebrations. The Pontifany is celebrated with a 'bean in a cake', the recipient of which is selected as the 'King for the day'. They share a special French dinner on Mardi Gras to celebrate before the beginning of the lenten season. The 'Reveillion' celebration comes from the French word meaning 'wake up' for midnight mass on Christmas eve.

Jean Mery whose name was anglicized to Jemery, one of the first presidents of the college, planted St. Joseph metals (one of the society's patrons) around the campus to ensure that the property would remain in the hands of the Edmundites. His faith resulted in the reality of that dream.

The Edmundites are an integral part of the college's past and future. They have given selflessly to enhance the community. For 80 years they have been a distinctive aspect of the college and their efforts are sincerely appreciated.

Dorm Life

Ah yes, the experience of Saga. Can we ever forget that mystery meat? How many times have you trudged down three flights of stairs with a clothes basket packed with three weeks of laundry only to find that the only two working washing machines had a line of five and six people respectively? But have no fear, you can easily find your way back upstairs by following the trail of your own dirty clothes. And then - the QUAD FIGHTS - keeping you awake until 3 a.m. while your roommate screams obscenities out your window. And who can forget those mornings when you waited 20 minutes for a shower only to be hit with a stream of ice-cold water? (Oh, I should have stayed in bed!)

Ah . . . that heavenly aroma of generic Macaroni and Cheese. What would we do without it? And then the dishes - it's like having your own Saga "pit." Doing laundry - either trudging outside in sub-zero temperatures only to realize you've forgotten your detergent once you get to the laundry room, or . . . if you're lucky enough to have your own washer and dryer, they make so much noise, you have to crank the stereo up full blast! But at least the Quad Fights are behind us. No, now all we have to disturb our sleep are the die-hards cruising in at 2:00 a.m. for the after-hours next door. And no, we no longer have to wait for showers in the morning. But guess who has to clean them? Where's Mom when you need her?!

Extending a "Welcome Aboard" to new students, Orientation '83 offered four days of social and athletic activities to acquaint students with each other and the campus. The new students were divided into groups in Ross Sports Center for "freshman-get-acquainted games." The "people pass," "human knots," and "lap sitting" were a few of the more memorable events. Back in the residence halls, at the "Gutter Party" students shared ice cream sundaes made in genuine foil-covered rain gutters. Highlighting the following day was a panel discussion, "If I Could Do It All Over Again," during which sophomores and juniors and seniors spoke of their experiences at St. Mike's and answered any questions the new students had. In the afternoon, crazy and challenging competition in the Autumn Olympics was followed by a chicken barbecue. The Decentz provided the music for a dance in Alliot that evening. Not forgetting what they came for, students were offered various academic presentations that Monday, followed by a faculty/student brunch. The return of Abrams & Anderson, an improvisational comic duo, continued yet another Orientation tradition. Many spent their last day before classes by hiking, biking, canoeing, and seeing a little more of Vermont. Orientation . . . something you only do once.

Who says you can't go home again? Some 500 alumni returned to campus Oct. 14-16 for a weekend of music, athletics and socializing in the true St. Mike's tradition. The timeless music of the Phonics was a sensation at the annual dinner and dance. And, what would a homecoming be without a visit to the Rathskeller? John Stone, Class of '83, returned with his guitar to pack the pub on Friday afternoon. On Saturday, there was little to discourage the class of '78, who did a little "private partying" of their own in the Rat that afternoon. Who could forget "Dorm Daze"?

"Chill Out: There's nothing cold about it" is exactly right! It was a very mild Winter Weekend in 1984. Thursday there was night skiing at Bolton Valley. There were three "purple haze-loads" of students there and a lot of people drove up on their own. John Stone returned to play at the Rat Happy Hour Friday. That night an Alliot Party featured "Pinhead" and "Jah-Malla" for a new-wave and reggae dance. Saturdays events on the P-day field were cancelled so everyone had a Winter P-day instead. J. Conlon and Sue Donovan had their own skating party Sunday with all the cookies and hot chocolate they could consume! SMC continued to support their Wildlife in '84.

Parents' Weekend 1984 featured many varied activities. Friday night the Chorale performed. There were many one act plays which followed the concert and occurred all weekend. Saturday the Wind and Jazz Ensembles played to a packed Recital Hall. Later that afternoon the Dance ensemble performed. That evening there was the annual Parent-Faculty cocktail, followed by the banquet in Ross Sports Center. Dave LaMarche was featured as the speaker, discussing the value of a liberal arts education. That night parents went to the Jazz Soiree where Dr. Jazz got Mom and Dad swinging. At the same time, the north campus gym Dance was attended by 1000 people. Mr. & Mrs. E. Dery, Rebecca's parents, of Dalton Mass. were chosen as parents of the weekend. By Sunday, the crowds left the campus happy with St. Michael's, their sons and daughters, and the weather (which almost cooperated!).

Saturday on the field was a wild time for all with Music provided by 'B. Willie Smith' and 'Steve Smith and the Naked'. Uncooperative weather did little to discourage the party. Point of View

By Barbara Brittingham and Richard Katzoff

The Life and Times of the Class of 1984

NINETEEN EIGHTY-FOUR is less than four years away, but the class of 1984 enrolled this fall. If that freshman in the back of the room doesn't seem to understand what you're talking about, there's a good reason. Despite the talk about more adults returning to school, this year's typical freshmen were born in 1962. That means most of the things that shaped our lives are ancient history to them. So, dear colleague, in the belief that understanding helps communication, we present below a selective chronology of their times.

1962 OUR FRESHMAN IS BORN. John Glenn orbits the earth; it's the year of the Cuban missile crisis. Nixon loses his bid to become governor of California, and Jimmy Carter is elected to the Georgia senate.

Escorted by federal marshals, James Meredith registers at the University of Mississippi.

The Mets join the National League. Watson, Wilkins, and Crick win the Nobel Prize for discovering the molecular structure of DNA.

Marilyn Monroe dies. Rachel Carson's Silent Spring is a best seller, and the Barbie doll is 3.

1963 OUR FRESHMAN IS 1; HE LEARNS TO WALK AND SAY SIMPLE WORDS. John Kennedy is assassinated in Dallas; L.B.J. becomes President. The Washington-Moscow "hot line" begins.

Martin Luther King leads a rally of 200,000 in Washington. In Alabama, Gov. George Wallace vows, "Segregation now, segregation tomorrow, segregation forever!"

Pete Rose is the National League Rookie of the Year. Pope John XXIII dies. America reads Betty Friedan's Feminine Mystique, and "Cleopatra" is the big movie.

1964 OUR FRESHMAN LIVES THROUGH THE TERRIBLE 2'S. Johnson and Humphrey beat Goldwater and Miller. Congress passes the Tonkin Gulf Resolution, declares war on poverty, and passes the Civil Rights Act.

Goodman, Schwerner, and Cheney are murdered in Mississippi. Martin Luther King wins the Nobel Peace Prize.

Cassius Clay beats Sonny Liston. Students strike for free speech at Berkeley. We watch "Hello, Dolly!" "Dr. Strangelove," and topless bathing suits, and Ed Sullivan brings the Beatles to America.

1965 OUR FRESHMAN IS 3 AND BEGINS TO LEARN INDEPENDENCE. The Medicare program is passed. The Northeast is blacked out.

Martin Luther King leads a march from Selma to Montgomery, and Malcolm X is shot to death at a Harlem rally. Thirty-five die in riots in Watts.

Ralph Nader publishes Unsafe at Any Speed, and "The Sound of Music" wins the Academy Award for best picture. Winston Churchill, Albert Schweitzer, and Adlai Stevenson die.

1966 OUR FRESHMAN IS 4 AND ENTERS NURSERY SCHOOL. Stokely Carmichael proclaims the doctrine of Black Power, and Betty Friedan founds NOW. Ronald Reagan is governor of California.

Richard Speck kills eight student nurses in Chicago, and Charles Whitman goes on a shooting rampage from the clock tower at the University of Texas at Austin, killing 13. The Supreme Court issues the Miranda ruling protecting the rights of suspects.

Walt Disney dies. The Beatles make their last concert appearance. Masters and Johnson's Human Sexual Response is published, and "Star Trek" and "Mission Impossible" go on TV; "Perry Mason" goes off.

1967 OUR FRESHMAN IS 5 AND ENTERS KINDERGARTEN. Dr. Christiaan Barnard performs the first human-heart transplant, and the Arabs and Israelis fight the Six-Day War.

It's the summer of love for the flower children in Haight-Ashbury; it's also the summer of disturbances in American cities, with major riots in Detroit, Milwaukee, and New York.

Low Alcindor is named the outstanding player in college basketball, and Adam Clayton Powell is barred from taking his seat in the House. America goes to see "The Graduate" and "Bonnie and Clyde."

1968 OUR FRESHMAN IS 6 AND ENTERS THE FIRST GRADE. Johnson announces he will not seek re-election. Martin Luther King and Bobby Kennedy are assassinated. The Democrats convene in Chicago with anti-war demonstrators outside. Nixon and Agnew win the election.

Students sit in at Columbia, and Benjamin Spock and William Sloan Coffin are indicted for conspiracy for counseling draft evaders. S. I. Hayakawa becomes president of San Francisco State.

In the theater it's "Hair"; at the movies, "2001: A Space Odyssey"; and on TV, "Laugh-In" with its Flying Fickle Finger of Fate.

1969 OUR FRESHMAN IS 7 AND JOINS THE SCOUTS. Armstrong and Aldrin walk on the moon. Earl Warren retires as Chief Justice of the United States. On October 15, anti-war demonstrators march on Washington while Richard Nixon and Bebe Rebozo watch football on color TV.

Judy Garland, Sharon Tate, and Mary Jo Kopechne die. The Volkswagen Beetle sells for $1,839.

Portnoy's Complaint is published, the movies bring us "Midnight Cowboy," and the concert at Woodstock is the cultural happening of the year.

1970 OUR FRESHMAN IS 8 AND IN THE THIRD GRADE. Anwar al-Sadat becomes president of Egypt, and Salvador Allende is elected president of Chile.

Four students are killed at Kent State and two at Jackson State, setting off the most widespread student protests in history. The voting age for federal elections is lowered to 18.

Janis Joplin and Vince Lombardi die. America is reading The Greening of America and Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Sex, and "M*A*S*H" is packing them in at the movies.

1971 OUR FRESHMAN IS 9, AVOIDS THE OPPOSITE SEX, BUT LEARNS MULTIPLICATION. Look magazine goes off the newsstands, and the Pentagon Papers appear. Nixon freezes wages and prices and installs tape-recording equipment in his office.

Busing to achieve racial balance in schools is upheld by the Supreme Court.

On TV we watch "All in the Family" for the first time and have watched cigarette ads for the last time. "The French Connection" is big at the box office; and hot pants and boots are big everywhere.

1972 OUR FRESHMAN IS 10, TAKES MUSIC LESSONS, AND MEMORIZES JOYCE KILMER'S "TREES." Nixon visits China, and burglars visit Watergate. George McGovern pledges 1,000-per-cent support to Tom Eagleton, and Kissinger promises that peace is at hand. Nixon wins in a landslide and orders the bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong.

Congress passes the Equal Rights Amendment and sends it to the states for ratification. Liz Taylor becomes a grandmother at 40.

J. Edgar Hoover, the Duke of Windsor, and Life magazine die. We are reading Open Marriage, Jonathan Livingston Seagull, and Jack Anderson's tales of Dita Beard.

1973 OUR FRESHMAN IS 11, AVOIDS MUSIC LESSONS, BUT LEARNS TO DANCE. The peace accord ending the Vietnam War is signed in Paris. The Yom Kippur War hits the Middle East, and the Saturday Night Massacre hits Washington.

Agnew resigns, Haldeman resigns, Erlichman resigns, Richardson resigns; Dean is fired, Cox is fired; Ziegler declares all statements on Watergate "inoperative," and Nixon says, "I am not a crook."

Secretariat wins the Triple Crown and "The Sting" wins the Oscar. When they're not talking about Watergate, people are talking about The Joy of Sex and "The Last Tango in Paris."

1974-76 OUR FRESHMAN IS IN JUNIOR HIGH AND ENDURES PUBERTY.

1974. Patty Hearst is kidnaped. Nixon resigns and moves to California; Ford becomes President and pardons Nixon. Sugar prices soar and we wait in gas lines while Barbra Streisand sings about "The Way We Were."

1975. New York is in financial crisis. William O. Douglas retires, and Jimmy Hoffa disappears; Francisco Franco dies. For culture, it's "Jaws" and "Saturday Night Live."

1976. America celebrates its bicentennial and elects Carter and Mondale. Women are admitted to the U. S. service academies for the first time. Richard Daley, Howard Hughes, and Mao Tse-tung die. It's the year of Legionnaires' disease and Passages.

1977-79 OUR FRESHMAN IS IN HIGH SCHOOL, LEARNS TO DRIVE, AND PICKS A COLLEGE. The trans-Alaskan pipeline opens; so does the border between Israel and Egypt. The Supreme Court orders Allan Bakke admitted to medical school. Proposition 13 is the rage; the Susan B. Anthony dollar is a bomb. Hanna Gray becomes president of the University of Chicago. It's the time of Three Mile Island, of the Iranian hostages and Afghanistan, of Koreagate and Abscam. Hairdryers and bacon cause cancer; the Ayatollah Khomeini causes everything else.

1980 OUR FRESHMAN TURNS 18 AND ENTERS COLLEGE. His or her 18 years have been shaped by assassinations, inflation, and the energy crisis; by disco, hand-held calculators, and "The Waltons." To be most effective in serving Orwell's freshmen, we must try to see those 18 years through their eyes.

Was there ever a more sobering challenge? No.

Will there ever be a greater one? Yes; but not until next fall.

Year books don't grow on trees. Paper does. Yearbooks grow out of the creative minds of individuals. They are harvested after great physical and mental labor. Yearbooks are not created in a vacuum. They are formed out of a community. If any yearbook could be called a community effort, this one certainly should.

Who me?

Editor's Message

Your Humble Editor

Dearest Saint Michael's College Community,

Who me? Did I know that one day I would be the Editor of my college yearbook? No, how could I have known? But this photo captures an image of me at an early stage in my life. I will always be able to see this impression of myself as a baby. The other photo shows what I look like now, as a senior graduating from college. This is the power of photography, to capture a moment in time, a moment we can look back and reflect upon.

The power of photography adds significance to yearbooks as well. We will cherish this book as a reflection of 1984 to us here as Saint Michael's. Many years from now you will show your children and their children what you were like, and what Saint Michael's was like at this time in your life.

There is a lot of mystique and curiosity surrounded with the year '1984'. Many prophecies were wrong but some were disturbingly accurate. Whatever the case, it is a special year, one that I feel is worth remembering.

Fondly,

Diane M. Stockton
